Grant call GC-2027: Community Water Resilience Fund (fictional sample)

This note sets out what an applicant must send together with its application form.

Applications close on 15 December 2027 and late applications are not read.

Awards range between R500 000 and R3 000 000 depending on the size of the project.

Who may apply

Registered non-profit organisations working on water supply in rural communities may apply.

An organisation may submit one application in each funding round.

Projects must be completed within eighteen months of the award.

What to attach

Every item below must be sent with the application. Documents are listed in the order they are read.

Required attachment: Application form

Required attachment: Project budget

Required attachment: Registration certificate

The registration certificate must show the legal name exactly as it appears on the application form.

Required attachment: Tax clearance certificate

Required attachment: Board resolution

Required attachment: Bank confirmation letter

Statements older than two years will not be accepted.

Required attachment: Annual financial statements

Required attachment: Project work plan

Required attachment: Letters of support

How applications are assessed

Each application is read by two assessors who score it against the published criteria.

Assessors look at need, value for money, community involvement and the strength of the plan.

The panel may ask an applicant to clarify any part of its application in writing.

Successful applicants are told by letter and the list of awards is published afterwards.

Funds are paid in three instalments linked to reports on progress.

The fund keeps the right to withdraw an award if information given turns out to be untrue.

Applicants should keep a copy of everything they send.

This note is invented for software testing only and describes no real grant.